Magazines subscribed to by the Library:

The American, American Home, American Girl, Better Homes and Gardens, Cosmopolitan, Field and Stream, Good Housekeeping, Jack and Jill, Ladies' Home Journal, Life, National Geographic, Open Road for Boys, Outdoor, Readers' Digest, Popular Science, Saturday Evening Post, Scientific American, Woman's Home Companion, Yankee.

The library has been fortunate in obtaining some unusually worth while books during the year, both through purchasing and the generosity of our patrons. To the latter we extend our grateful thanks. We are still making use of the books made available by the State Library and the New Hampshire Library Commission. Due to the Commission we were again able to get books from the State Aid; these are mostly for the Juvenile department. The circulation in this department has shown a satisfactory increase, and we appreciate the cooperation of the teachers.

The library hours remain the same as in previous years. Tuesday from 12 noon until 2 p. m.; Saturdays from 2 p. m. until 8 p. m. During the summer vacation the Tuesday hours are changed to Wednesday evenings, from 6:30 p. m. to 8:30.

It was our privilege to entertain the 12th Library District here on September 12. There were 36 members and guests present. Talks were given by Miss Catharine Pratt, executive secretary of the N. H. Library Commission; Miss Thelma Brackett, head of the State Library; and Laurie Hillyer Armstrong, feature editor of the Yankee magazine. The Woman's Guild served the luncheon.

We thank our friends for their patronage; any suggestions as to how we may be more helpful in the future will be appreciated.

Respectfully submitted,

AGNES M. CUTTER, Librarian

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

TO THE SCHOOL BOARD AND CITIZENS OF FRANCESTOWN:

I respectfully submit my eighth annual report as Superintendent of Schools.

EDUCATION AND THE SECOND WORLD WAR

Our nation, together with other freedom-loving peoples of the world, is at war with a group of nations whose leaders would impose upon the whole world a way of life that is utterly opposed to our way of life. Our one immediate aim is to win this struggle, and all our material resources and energies must be marshalled for the accomplishment of this purpose. I am thinking not simply of the military victory which is of course the immediate objective, but also of the "winning of the peace"; for unless the world emerges from this struggle with a plan for improved international relationships as a basis for better living and understanding among all of its people, our efforts and sacrifices will have been in vain.

The responsibilities resting upon the public schools have increased throughout the years and new problems of the future will still further increase those responsibilities. The dominant role in promoting a general understanding and appreciation of the ideals of the American way of life among the people always has been and must always be that of the school. In so far as the schools work out a sound educational philosophy and apply it wisely in a constructive educational program the success of democracy is assured. Blame for the failures and weaknesses in our American system may rest in part upon other shoulders, but it must always be attributed primarily to the failure of education to properly plant the seed and nurture the growth of the ideals of democracy in the youth of the nation.

While we must "for the duration" bend all efforts to the winning of the war, we must not fail to carry on the processes of education with undiminished vigor and effectiveness. We must not cease to study our objectives and procedures to the end that they may be continually improved to meet the constantly changing needs of the times. We must not forget that education is concerned with more than the accumulation of knowledge, the development of skills, and improvement of understanding; we must remember constantly that the emotional element of human nature largely determines what use is made of this knowledge, understanding and skill; that it is the ideals, appreciations and interests that are awakened as well as the knowledge, understanding and skills that are developed through the learning processes, which brings about the desirable resultant intelligent participation in life activities.

INCREASING COST

If education is as important a fundamental in a democracy as we have considered it to be in the foregoing discussion, we cannot fail to recognize the necessity for giving it support second to nothing else unless it be for the time being to the necessity of winning the war. We are all experiencing the effects of the war economy in increasing costs, and our first instinctive thought is the necessity for economy in our personal and governmental expenditures. In this connection I should like to quote part of a statement prepared by the Policy Committee of the New England Association of School Superintendents: "We believe this to be a time when wise expenditures of money for public education should be consistently upheld by the tax payers and that all selfish attempts to reduce such appropriations in the interests of so-called "Economy" should be strongly opposed. The rising cost of living and the reduction in buying power make higher salaries and higher general costs inevitable. Higher school appropriations will be required. Committees that fail to provide adequately for conditions ahead are likely to see the schools and the product of the schools severely handicapped. No question exists as to the continuing supply of material resources for our Arsenal of Democracy. There likewise should be no question about adequate support for one of its outstanding spiritual resources, namely The Public School System of America."

The National Commission for the Defense of Democracies Through Education calls attention to the effect of inflated living costs during the first World War, which compelled low-salaried teachers to accept better wages in business and industries and necessitated the filling of their places in the school rooms by unqualified people, and suggest that "part of the physical and educational unfitness of youth rejected for military service today can be charged to the inadequacies forced upon the schools during and following the World War." The Commission points out that we are already entering the first cycle of those events again. Teachers in large numbers are leaving for better paying positions in defense industries and government agencies. This situation has already become serious in some of the South and Central States where teachers' salaries are below the average. If this flow of teachers to better paid occupations is not checked, it will not be long before sections like our own, where somewhat higher salaries are paid, will be threatened with the necessity of replacing teachers with persons less adequately trained.

The Commission points out that in two years (to October, 1941) the cost of living has gone up 11% and food prices have risen 19%, and estimates that the cost of living will increase another 15% in 1942, even if a start is made toward price control. They also state,—“during these two years the twelve million factory workers have received an increase of 30% in average weekly earnings, cash income from farm products has gone up 45%, teachers' salaries for the most part have remained static." To quote further, "the times permit a more generous financial support of schools. Incomes in general are rising faster than the cost of living, property is worth more, tax delinquency is less."

TESTS

As in the past, The Stanford Achievement Tests and the Metropolitan Achievement Tests have been given in October to all pupils in Grades 3 to 8; in January to Grade 2; and in May to Grade 1, and to those pupils who had low scores in the October test or were absent or entered school after the October testing. All of these tests were given, scored and tabulated by the teachers. The tabulated results are assembled in my office and such comparisons are made with the test standards and with the results of previous tests as are found useful both to me in supervising the schools as a whole and to the teachers in gauging their instruction in the various subjects, and in locating weaknesses that need to be corrected.

The authors and publishers of the Stanford Achievement Test have made a thorough going revision in these tests and the new forms were used for the first time in my district last October. The changes made in the tests and the resulting changes appearing in the standards for each grade were such that a comparison of results with those of previous years is somewhat misleading. The October 1941 tests show, however, that the pupils in my district in Grade 8 were about one month below the standard, in Grade 7 one month above the standard, in Grade 6 three months above standard, in Grade 5 one month above standard, and in Grade 4 one month above standard.

BUDGET

School Board's estimate for 1942-1943 shows certain increases over last year's budget that may need a word of explanation. The upward trend in teachers' salaries already mentioned explains the fact that that item is higher than last year. The increasing cost of maintenance of automobile with all the uncertainties as to what the future may bring, makes it necessary to increase the allowance for cost of transportation; the estimate given is based upon the present cost and may not be high enough. The change in the two items "school supplies" and "other expenses of instruction" are explained in part by changing bookkeeping methods by transferring $20 to one item to the other and the further increase in cost of supplies is to provide for the higher cost of paper and other school supplies.

Cost of high school tuition is estimated at $1,350 on the basis of the present knowledge regarding the intentions now in high school, and this year's eighth grade. Expense of administration is increased $15 to cover Francestown's share of rent and telephone for the Superintendent's office now that it has been moved from the Wilton school building, where there was no charge for rent and telephone.

All these changes result in an increase of some $400 in the total budget, and since the estimated income is practically the same as last year it means approximately $400 larger appropriation to balance the budget than was required last year.

Respectfully submitted,

VERNON S. AMES

Superintendent of Schools

February 12, 1942.
